I have some good news for you. We have decided to exchange you for three Filipinos and two Zulus on condition that you will agree to appear when wanted." "I give you my word as an Elk that I will,"

Col. Williams is an Elk. They shook hands on it and Lon was let go. Col. Williams said to the reporters? "It was a nuisance with the accommodations that we had to take care of the man. It was a hardship to him and to his family to keep him here, and we're so busy with other matters that it would be impossible to try him by a court martial for some time to come. He is not a man to run away and so we let him go."

"Nothing whatever. He was a prisoner of war, a military prisoner, and the writ could not touch him. No. it's just as I say."

Whether or not the writ had anything to do with the young man's release everybody agrees that the release relieves the general situation. The release caused considerable excitement for the reason that the story was circulated at once that it was brought about by a direct or-McKiniey could by any stretch of the imagination be mixed up in it nobody could tell, time. It was said positively by Democrats that there was great influence being brought to bear from Washington on Gov. Taylor to force a sine-die adjournment." him to obey the rulings of the courts, whatever they may be. The Governor laughed at the story to the persons who were privileged to see him. He would not make any statement for publication, even about the stories that Washington was bringing influence to bear upon him. In this connection it may be said that while newspapers have daily printed interviews with him, he has not granted a single interview since the day that Senator Goebel was shot except to express sorrow first at the shooting and to-day at the death.

After Lon Walker had received the congratulations of his friends at the hotel, he said that he was going to institute a civil suit for damages against the Governor and the commanding officer of the military for his arrest. He also said that he had gathered from the soldiers who had stood guard over him that they were anxious to go over to the Democratic side as soon as they got a good excuse to do so. Lon was doing duty as an officer of the court when he was arrested. He had to make a return to the court to-day of what he had done in order to prove that the notice was served on the Governor, and, therefore, the injunction proceedings were legal. Here is his return:

The affiant, Alonzo Walker, says that he executed the written notice by entering the Ex-ecutive building in Frankfort, Ky., and attempting to gain admission to W. S. Taylor. After being refused admission, he then posted a copy of the written notice on the door facing the inner private office of said W. S. Taylor at 12 o'clock noon on second day of February. 1900. In said office were the said W. S. Taylor. and Daniel R. Collier. Afflant further states that he was not interested directly or indirectly in the matter of litigation, and he is a citizen of Kentucky and over sixteen years of age. Afflant further states that the reason he did not make an immediate and earlier return of the execution of said notice was because he was immediately, by order of said W. S. Taylor, arrested and has been since the said second day of February, 1900, confined as prisoner in the State House at Frankfort and kept under guard by armed men under command of W. S. Taylor, Daniel Collier, C. C. Mengel, D. W. Gray, Horace Cochran, Lieut, Rogers and Lieut, Rudy, until twenty minutes after 11 o'clock of Feb. 4. 1900, when afflant was discharged without trial."

TO BE IGNORED BY TAYLOR.

The notice was torn down from where Lon There will also be the same claim made by Adjutant-General Collier and Col. Williams of the military regiment regarding the McKay, the first man selected on the staff of Mr. Beckham, who was sworn in as Governor upon the death of Senator Goebel. The notices were mentioned in THE SUN this morning. The first dismissed Gen. Collier. from the office of Adjutant General, and demanded that he turn his office over to his successor, and that he disband the military troops under his command, as Beckham's proclamation ordered. The second dismissed Col. Williams, and commanded him to do likewise. These two communications were turned over to the officer of the day by Col. McKay. The officer refused to let Col. McKay enter the Capitol Square. He promised that he would deliver the letters to the officer named and Col. McKay made a return that dismissais had been delivered. Yesterday THE SUN re porter talked with Col. Williams about the matter. The Colonel said: "I haven't heard officially of any such dis missals. I believe the soldiers had some letters last night that they were passing around among themselves and laughing over, but I did not see them nor did Gen. Collier."

CASTLEMAN FOR ADJUTANT-GENERAL. At the time the letters were written to Gen. Collier and Col. Williams Gen. Collier's successor had not been appointed, but, as THE SUN anid, he had been selected; Gen. Castleman was the man. He was appointed by Mr. Beckham a little before midnight and his commission was forwarded to him at Louisville. He had been asked to take the place by Senator Goebel, but had asked for time. He signified his willingness to take the place after tioebel's death. His letter to Beckham is as follows:

"Hon, J. W. C. Beckham, Governor of Kentucky: "My DEAR SIR: Every citizen should serve his State. Business obligations unusually exacting require my attention. Impelled by a sense of duty to unite with you in the hope of influencing a peaceful solution of the difficulties which discredit Kentucky, I hope that you will accept my services as temporary Adjutant-General, and without compensation. I shall do whatever I can to support your a iministration and serve the commonwealth. Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

"JOHN B. CASTLEMAN." It has been given out here that the plan of the Goebelites is to have Gen. Castleman, who has been a Brigadier-General, having been appointed such by President McKinley during the Puerto Rico campaign, come to Frankfort and make formal demand upon Gen. Collier for control of the troops I'pon the refusal of Collier to do this Gen, Castleman is to call upon the soldiers to obey him and if they refuse a new militia is to be organized at once and the State House taken by force.

THE SUN reporter is informed to-night, on excellent authority, that if this is to be done at all it will not be done for some little time. THE SUN's informant says that it is not the intention of Gen. Castieman to come to Frankfort at all at present. The Democrats who are doing the most of the engineering in the fight are in Louisville, and they are perfecting their plans of campaign there. Gen. Castleman will confer with them and act entirely under their guidance. Every effort is to be made to reduce the feeling in Frankfort and to lessen the chance of an outbreak at the present time.

REPUBLICAN LEGISLATIVE PLAN. Gov. Taylor's meeting of the Legislature, which his proclamation called for Tuesday at London, is the next disturbing element. The Republican minority is going to meet there to-morrow afternoon, and the Legislature will be convened there on Tuesday. Under the Kentucky law, a minority of the Legis- | who are going to the scene of the expected | 440.

The County Judge who issued it, while saying lature can meet and can adjourn from day to day and force the majority members to attend by arresting them and bringing them to men being gathered in three hours to enforce the legislative hall. It has been the It after the injunction proceedings before plan of the Republicans to act under Judge Cantrill in Georgetown on Tuesday had this law, forcing enough of the Democratic members to attend to give them a quorum and then to go ahead and adopt the minority report of the Gubernatorial Contest Com mittee, confirming Gov. Taylor's title to the office, to go shead and elect a United States Senator in place of Senator-elect Blackburn and to fill the other offices. THE SUN reporter is informed to-night that this plan cannot be carried out. There is a provision of the Kentucky Constitution that forbids the Legislature's adjournment for more than three days at a time. Another provision permits the members of the Legislature to meet and adjourn for three days more, and so on. It is attogether likely that five Democratic members only will meet here to-morrow and Tuesday, and if the minority sends for them and compels their attendance at London, they will make only a show of resistance. There are 12 Republicans in the Senate and 40 Republicans in the House. A quorum in the Senate is 19 and in the House is 51. If the five Demo-"The habeas corpus had nothing to do with | crats from each house should be force ! to attend, there would still be two short of a quorum in the Senate and six short of a quorum in the House. GOEBEL'S BODY TO BE MOVED TO-DAY. To-morrow is looked forward to with some dread by everybody here. It is County Court day, and that is an event in a Kentucky county. At Frankfort County Court day usually brings hundreds of natives from the surrounding country. It more often is a day of drunkenness and rumpus. The men from the mountains have only the one day in a month to see a town and they make the most of it. This time a bigger crowd than usual is expected, owing to the assassination of Goebel and the excitement attendant upon it. While all this crowd is here it is planned to move the body of dead Senator Goebel from the hotel to the railway station, where it is to be placed aboard special train to be taken to his former home in Covington, Ky.

With partisanship running high as it does here, and with practically every man armed with either a brace of pistols or a rifle, the possibilities can be imagined. The police authorities to-day decided to swear in a lot of special policemen, and in addition to that the Mayor has renewed his order closing all the saloons in the town. It is hoped that if rum is kept away from the crowd it may be handled without disagreeable incident, but everybody is apprehensive.

The superstitious say they are not afraid. ecause it's Tuesday that things happen in Frankfort and not Monday. It was on a Tuesday that the Colson-Scott shooting took place in the Capitol Hotel a few weeks ago, and it was on Tuesday that Goebel was shot, and it is on Tuesday that the Governor has ordered the Legislature to meet. The plan of taking Senator Goebel's body to Covington was insisted upon by Democrats of that town and by his family. The present plan is to place the casket in a public building there and let it lie in state from 5 o'clock to 9 o'clock on Tuesday, then on Wednesday it will be brought back to Frankfort after the funeral services have been held in Covington. There will be additional services held here and the body will probably be buried in the cemetery on the hill here where are buried the bodies of Daniel Boone, and Luke Blackburn and many Kentucky statesmen. There may be minor changes in this

His wife called on him about noon and spent an hour or so with him. Practically all of his attorneys are in Louisville and have been there for several days planning a way to get of two notices on them by Col. the controversy into the United States courts. There is a great deal of unpleasant comment in the city over the failure of the Governor to have the flag on the State House half-masted out of respect to the memory of Senator Goebel. Politicians say that Goebel was entitled the honor by reason of his office as Senator f for no other reason.

It was decided to-night that all the schools n Frankfort should be closed the coming week ecause of the excitement and the possibility of trouble. The pupils were all notified this evening and parents were warned to keep their hildren off the streets.

LONDON READY FOR LEGISLATORS. some of the Republicans Arrive for the Session Appointed by Taylor.

LONDON, Ky., Feb. 4.-Everything is ready for the session of the Legislature here on Tuesday, and fifteen or twenty members, all Republicans, are present, headed by Representative Slack, the leader of the House for the Republicans and the chairman of the Republican joint caucus. He believes the death of Goebel will leave the Democrats without a head and that they will allow their cause to fall to pieces, and that within a few weeks at most the Republicans will be allowed to hold their offices in peace. Some of the Republicans think that the outlook is bad and they predict bad results to follow the assassination of

Some Republicans here say that the assassination of Goebel was the work of some man who had a private reason for killing him. They believe that the man who executed it had planned it for months and that he waited until the political tension should get at its. highest before he fired the fatal shot. The feeling is growing that Goebel was not shot from the Executive building at all.

In commenting on the coming session of the Legislature to be held here Representative Hazwel of Breckinridge county said he believed that under the rules the Republicans can electa Sergeant-at-Arms protem, and that he can in turn appoint as many deputies as he pleases and that they can go out and arrest all the absent members if they can flud them. There is some talk of the Democratic members going to Cincinnati to-morrow and thus getting without the jurisdiction of the Sergeant-ai-Arms. If this is done there may not be a quorum here for some time. If the Democratic allow themselves to be arrested and brought here the Republicans say it will be only a few days until they have a quorum. They want to get a quorum before the Governor is enjoined by Judge Cantrell on next Thursday.

They have made arrangements to accommodate 200 persons, and have secured the old Acatemy tuilding, in which the Logislature will meet. The House will meet do vnstairs and the Senate Jup-stairs. There will be plenty of room for both houses. The people of London want the world to know that they are not feudists and that they have never had a feud in this county, and that there is no liquor sold in the city or county. They declare this is one of the most beaucable towns in the State and that Democrats will not only escape injury here, but they will be welcomed to the town and will be taken care of.

RECRUITING "GOEBEL CUARDS,"

Men in Southern Indiana Preparing to Flock to Frankfort.

Inpranapolis, Feb. 4,-Expected trouble at Frankfort, Ky., to-morrow is causing excitement in the southern Indiana cities and towns. and a large number of men are about to start to the Kentucky capital, where they will offer their services to the local sheriffs as deputies. For the most part the volunteers are Democrats or in sympathy with that party, but some trouble are Republicans and expect to take the side of Gov. Taylor.

John Schmitt of Evansville, an old police officer, is openly engaged in raising a company which he calls the "Goebel Guards," and he will leave for Frankfort to-morrow with about sixty armed men.

Agents both of the Democrats and Republicans appeared at Jefforsonville, New Albany, and, it is said, were in consultation with particular regarding the Kentucky situation and presumably, arranging for assistance from these places in the event of a clash at Frankfort.

TELIS ABOUT CANALBOAT KILLING. There Was Only One Murderer and He Was

Killed by a Fall, Survivor Says. Coroner Bausch and the police yesterday continued their investigation of the double killing on the canalboat Thomas Slowey at the foot of East Third street last Saturday night. Alvin O. Collins, the captain of the Slowey, who was arrested, charged with murder, awoke in the Union Market police station yesterday, in a mood very different from the deflance with which he met the police just after the murders were discovered. He remarked that he thought he had got himself into a good deal of trouble, and the police said that they were inclined to agree with him. Collins asked a great many questions about what the police had learned and what the other witnesses had said, and finally asked their advice as to what he had better do. They told him that if he had any reasonable explanation to offer for the murders he had better bring it out at once. Collins said he thought that was a pretty good idea and when the Coroner came he would act on it. He told Coroner Bausch that any pretence he might have made when he was arrested of not knowing what had happened was due to his having been half drunk and to his maddled idea of the caution necessary under the circumstances. Joseph Victor, one of the men killed, Collins went on to say, started the trouble by teasing Collins's dog. He refused to leave the dog alone when Collins told him to: the quarrel grew violent, and Victor, so Collins said, struck him in the chest and stomach and knocked him down. After he was knocked down and while he was still lying on the deck, Collins said, he drew out his clasp knife and made ready to spring at Victor. They fought over the knife and in the strucgle Victor got the knife away from him. Collins made a rush for Victor and Mrs. Collins jumped between them and received in the breast the blow that was meant for her husband. She got out of the way, and Victor's next blow struck Elmer Kipp and killed him.
Collins said he did not know exactly how Victor was killed. At first the police thought that Victor had been hit by a capstan bar that had been brought down into the cablen by Lawrence Collins, the captain's fourteen-year-old son, in the course of the fight. Nobody used that weapon, the elder Collins said yeaterday, and he was very sure that Victor's skull had been fractured by a fall.

The police and the Coroner believe that as tence he might have made when he was that victor's skull had been fractured by a fall.

The police and the Coroner believe that as to the cause of Victor's death, at least, Collins is telling the truth. They say that Victor's skull was fractured in such a way that a fall might have been the cause of it. Furthermore, they say that the little cabin where the fight took place was so small that there was no room for one of the fighters to have swung the capstan bar with sufficient force to have killed Victor.

Collins was committed to the Tombs without bail by the Coroner. Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Kipp are both locked up in the House of Detention as witnesses; neither of them would say anything yesterday to throw any light on the murders. Lawrence Collins is in the Gerry society's custody.

VERDICT IN THE HINMAN CASE. It Is Sealed, but Is Thought to Favor Mr.

Hinman's Side of the Case. CHICAGO, Feb. 4.-Though the verdict in the Hinman-Kohlsaat libel case will not be made public until Judge Stein's court is called to order to-morrow morning, it is considered generally in newspaper and legal circles that it will announce the acquittal of Mr. Hinman, editor of the Inter Ocean. Assistant State's Attorney A. C. Barnes said to-day: "The Judge's instructions seemed to be very unfavorable to the prosecution, and I would unfavorable to the prosecution, and I would not be at all surprised to find that the jury but rendered a verdict of acquittal. In view of the fact that Mr. Hinman's attorneys openly admitted during the trial that Mr. Kohlsaat had not been proved guilty of embezzlement from a legal standpoint, the prosecution left it had practically won its case until it heard the Court's instructions." prosecution felt it had practically won its case until it heard the Court's instructions."

Judge Stein held that the Inter Ocean in charging that Mr. Kohlsant was a defaulter, implying thereby that he had not kept his promises, had not transgressed the law inasmuch as it had been proved by the testimon of Mr. Kohlsant himself, as well as others, that he had not kept his promises. He admitted the term "Defaulter" may have other and different shades of meaning for the form of the property o may have other and different shades of meaning. So far as the charge of embezzlement was concerned Judge Stein held that the Inter Ocean did not charge Mr. Kohlsaat with being guilty of embezzlement in the legal sense of the term. He called attention to repeated decisions of the Supreme Court in cases bearing upon this point.

TACOMA, Wash., Feb. 4.-President Mellen of the Northern Pacific has scored a point against the Great Northern by buying from John D. THE NORTH BORNEO REVOLT.

Organized by Mat Salleh After the Money Paid to Him to Be Good Had Been Spent. TACOMA, Wash., Feb. 4.-Advices from Hong Kong give news of the revolt in British North Borneo. Natives along the whole west coast rose against the chartered British company operating there. They were led by the notorious outlaw, Mat Salleh, who, a recent cable despatch stated, has been killed. He led the rebellion against the British there two years ago. The rebellion was then ended by the managing director of the company going to Labuan and paying Salieh a large sum to disperse his followers. His money being spent, Salieh organized the present rebellion.

An expedition comprising 250 Sikhs or native soldiers and some bluetackets left Labuan last month. Several miles out they were attacked by the rebels from ambush and a number killed. The British force then fell back to await reanforcements. The report of Salleh's death indicates a later British victory.

Six rich residents have arrived at Hong Kong frem Borneo to remain until the trouble is over. At Gaya Bay Salieh's men raided the Chinese shops carrying off much booty. Two Government messengers are missing and are believed to have been murdered. He led the rebellion against the British there on the Issue of Refunding City Bonds. DALLAS, Texas, Feb. 3.-Mayor B. B. Paddock of Fort Worth was to-day beaten for renomination by T. J. Powell in the Democratic primaries by 965 majority. The election takes place on April 3. Pad-dock has been Mayor eight years and was believed to be invincible before the people, and his defeat is a before the people, and his defeat is a general surprise. There is no chance now to beat Powell at the election, and he is likely to have practically no opposition. The issue was exclusively the refunding of the bends of the city held by New York and other Fastern capitalists and the scaling down of the interest, as has frequently been mentioned in The Sun. The amount of bonds involved is appreximately $2.000,000. Mr. Paddock stood out for Fort Worth meeting all its obligations, and Mr. Powell stood for what Mr. Paddock and his friends termed repudiation.

the existence of man in tertiary period is announced by Prof. E. L. Hewett of the Normal University at Las Vegas, N. M. If Prof. Hewett suceeds in establishing his assertions he will upset two commonly accepted scientific theories. Until now there has been no good reason for believing that man appeared upon earth before the quaternary period. Assertions to the contrary have not stood the tests of science. Furthermore the cliff dwellers have not been regarded as a very ancient race. Indeed, many investigators have placed the age of the cliff dwellings at not more than three hundred or four hundred years and have said that they were built by a race immediately receding the Pueblo Indians, if not by the

that they were built by a race immediately preceding the Pueblo Indians, if not by the Pueblo Indians themselves.

Prof. Hewett now asserts that he has proved that the cliff dwellers are more ancient than any other known prehistoric race and vastly more ancient than the Pueblo Indians. He spent the greater part of last summer exploring the cliff dwellings in the vicinity of Santa Fé, and in a lecture last night he made public for the first time the results of his work. He described and showed fossil remains of the mastodon and other animals of the tertilary period. These were found he said, in the homes of the ancient people. He also exhibited utensils manifestly made from live, not fossil ivory, and these he says prove beyond doubt that the people that made them were contemporaneous with tertiary animals.

Over the region above White Rock Cañon on the Rio Grande extended in the tertiary period a vast lake which finally broke through the immense layers of volcanic tufa at White Rock Cañon. The region around the lake all the way into Colorado and the Mancos Cañon was well watered and gave sustenance to hundreds of thousands of people. Prof. Hewett described the cave and cliff dwellings, of which he found five varieties around Santa Clara. Some of the stone buildings ereced by the Cliff Pwellers had 2,000 rooms and it is upon the relies found in these dwellings that Prof. Hewett bases his theory of the great antiquity of their builders.

Prof. Hewett bases his theory of the great antiquity of their builders.

Prof. Hewett said that the Indians merely reoccupied the cliff and cave dwellings at the approach of the Saniards from New Mexico and in many instances plastered over the unique inscriptions show the wear of ages. One path in the sandstone on a volcanic mess connecting two cliff dwellers' villages is worn his deep and as the sandstone entrance to the temple at Mesca, trod by millions of pilgrims every year, is worn only six inches, this path, he thinks, shows that the cliff dwellers occupied New Mexico and C

Justice Cooper then read a letter from Mr. Ford, saying that it was impossible for him to appear in court that day, but he hoped no unlavorable action would be taken against the dog. He declared the dog was not ugly but only payful and hoped that Mr. Thurber would withdraw the complaint, as he was greatly atrached to the dog.

"Do you wish to give the dog another chance," asked the Magistrate.

"No," replied Mr. Thurber, "I have given him one, and that was one too many."

Justice Cooper then made out an order directing Mr. Ford to kill the dog. Mr. Ford is liable to a fine for each day the dog lives. Mr. Thurber has engaged counsel, and he says he will begin a damage suit against Mr. Ford.

French Manufacturer Accused and His Former Agent Here to Be Proceded Against. As the result of the discovery made at the Custom House that the invoices of J. B. Fontanille, a lace manufacturer of Puy, France, have been falsified during period of several years, there are likely to be much closer methods of examination of invoices in future. Prior to July, 1897. Fontanille's consignments were made to Charles E. Leuch, who was then a lace importer at 547 Broadway, but who is now a manufacturer of imitation laces at 53 Crosby street. Examination of the invoices entered by Leuch show that they were for less than the proper amounts and that the loss to the Government has been large in the Government has been large in the augregate. Owing to the statute of limitations Leuch, against whom Collector Bidwell has brought suit, can only be proceeded against for a period of five months prior to July, 1948. The suit is for $9,000. The United States District Attorney is considering lurther proceedings against Leuch, however, under a section of the McKinley customs administrative act, violation of which renders the offender liable to fine and imprisonment.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 4.-Frank Hooley, a farm ers son has confessed to being the one the little hamlet of Montville, Geauge county and in so doing surfeited that part of Ohio with mystery and no end of superstitious fright, and incidentially of causing the suicide of one man to whom circumstantial evidence pointed as the perpetrator of the deed. Hooley, who is 19 years old, appeared before Justice Case and swore to th following story:

"About one year ago I began to be troubled with insomnia. Later the trouble became worse and I passed night after night without sleep. When I shut my eyes I could see augers. To the right augers and to the left nothing but augers. I felt an uncontrollable desire to bore holes, and was so nervous that I thought ! should go crazy. One night, after trying in vain for several hours to go to sleep, I arose, went to

for several hours to go to sleep, I arose, went to the barn and bored a hole in one of the doors.
Immediately I experienced a change of feeling and my nervousness disappeared. I went to bed and slept soundly all night.
"I had found a remedy for my ills, but it did not last long, and I soon found that boring holes in the barn would not bring sleep. I felt that I must try the house, and
did. The neighbors' houses were perforated.
About one hole to each house, and the virtue was gone. I make this confession because I am sick of the business, and wish to be taken where I can be treated for this nameless disease." The announcement of this strange statement

The announcement of this strange statement has made a sensation second only to the discovery of the holes. For weeks after the discovery was made the little settlement was in a fever of excitement. Residents were utterly at a loss to explain the purpose of the borings. A hole had been bored through the outside wall hole had been bored through the outside wall of every dwelling in the village except two, and of every dwelling in the village except two, and in a few houses two holes were bored. Tiernan's sister Lillie, it was said in the neighborhood last night, is engaged to be married to one of the sons of Coroner Fitzpatrick, in whose district the shooting occurred. Tiernan's friends say that he had just come out of his father's milk store in futgers street when he saw a fight of which Cronin was the centre moving up and down Rutgers street; he ran into the crowd and asked what the trouble was. For an answer Cronin, who was out of his head with excitement, fired the builet into him.

BANK PRESIDENT PAYS UP.

Investigation by the Comptroller of the Currency of a Kansas Land Deal. TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 4.-Rumors of a deal in connection with the closing up of the affairs of the defunct First National Bank of Em-peria having reached the ears of the Comptroller of the Currency, he sent Inspector A. D. Lynch from Washington to investigate, with the result that Major Calvin Hood, President of the Emporia National, who bought the land owned by the defunct bank, last night turned over $19,000 above the original purchase price.

A few days ago the depositors' committee brought suit to have the sale set aside, alleg-ing collusion between Trustee R. T. Battey, who has charge of the land, Major Hood and others. Several parties went to Emporia to bid but got no opportunity. The depositors' committee had a standing offer of $60,000 for the land. Battey sold the land to Hood for $41,000 and had the sale confirmed by the Federal Court. It was this transaction that started the investigation.

GIBBONS ON THE ROBERTS'S CASE, MGR. SBARETTI BISHOP OF HAVANA. The Cardinal Says the House Did Right in Refusing to Seat Him.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 4.-In his customary sermon on the first Sunday in the month at the cathedral this morning Cardinal Gibbons spoke at length upon the expulsion of the Mormon Roberts from the House of Representatives. "The Position and Influence of Women" was words: "What God hath joined together, let no man's equal in every respect. From this he led to the case of Roberts and said:

"Respect for womanhood makes us appreciate the refusal of the House of Representatives to allow Congressman-elect Roberts of Utah ate the refusal of the House of Representatives to allow Congressman-elect Roberts of Utah a seat among the nation's lawmakers. As a Mormon he can have no proper respect for woman and he was rightly and justly rebuked. It was not a question of constitutional rights or interpretation of the laws. His constitutional rights have nothing to do with the case, which resolves itself simply into a question regarding the attitude of the country toward the women of the United States. In casting him out, Congress paid a tribute to American womanhood. To have allowed him to take his seat would have been to countenance the degradation of the whole estate of man. It was a victory for the right, and Congress deserves credit for recognizing the law which is higher than any other."

lists Ignored by the Colonel. Dallas, Tex., Feb. 4 .- On Jan. 30 Milton Park, chairman of the National Reorganization Committee of the Middleof-the-Road Populists, sent a telegram to W. J. Bryan, then at Pawtucket, R. I., concerning an alleged proposition on which the Populists would be willing to support Bryan for President. Park said support for the proposition was being urge I on Southern Populists by the friends of Bryan in Nebrassa and be asked Bryan if this was being done by his authority and if he was willing to stand by it. Park has waited eight days for an answer from Bryan but none has come to him. He said to-day:

"Bryan to date has not deigned to answer my telegram. I propose keeping after him till he does, or show him up as a sham through his ignoring of the telegram. I am being deluged with letters and telegrams from Populists living in almost every State, an the Union asking me to make public Bryan's reply. Will Mr. Bryan answer? Or will he play the same game on us that was played on Tom Watson in 1896?" I., concerning an alleged proposition on

Barrett of Brooklyn, second deacon of honor, and the Rev. J. D. Lennon of New York, sub-deacon of the mass. The Rev. Dr. Kennedy, professor of dogmatic theology in the Diocesan Seminary at Philadelphia, preached the sermon. Dr. Kennedy and all the assistants of the mass were at one time pupils of Mgr. Sharetti in the College of the Propaganda Fide at Rome. About sixty-five other priests, representing a dozen Catholic orders, were within the altar rail.

The consecration was begun at 9:30 o'clock and continued for four hours. It was one of the most ingressive and sumptuous ceremonies in the history of the American Catholic Church. The delegate and all the officers of Church. church The delegate and all the officers of the mass were unusually gorgeous robes. The mass was sing by a choir of seventy-voices, accompanied by an orchestra of thirty performers, and the habits of the priests who attended ranged from the brown gown of the Franciscans to the uniform of assistants at the legation. In the congregation, which crowded the building to the steps in front, were many representatives of diplomatic, official and social circles.

After the consecration the clergy was etertained at dinner by the faculty of Gonzaga College, and the Bishop-elect presented to the priests who had been unable to attend the investiture. Mgr. Sharetti intends to leave for Havana about the end of February. He is an Italian, was educated at Rome, is a close student and became generally popular while attached to the legation here.

IN MEMORY OF GEN. LAWTON.

in Washington. WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.-Memorial services in honor of the late Major-Gen. Henry W. Lawton were conducted to-night at the Church of Our Father (Universalist.) Addresses were delivered by Major-Gen. Nelson A. Miles, Corporal James Tanner and the Rev. John Van Schalk, formerly of New York city. Several Grand Army posts attended. Gen. Miles said

Gen. Miles's Address at Memorial Services

"When a true patriot dies, people mourn. When a grand and noble citizen passes away, his countrymen mourn. When a great soldier and able general falls on the field of battle, the nation suffers an irreparable loss. Such was the career of Major-Gen. Lawton. So valuable were his services to the nation that he had endeared himself in the hearts of his countrymen. His name has become a household word in every community. His course in life has been so up-right and honorable that all classes will revere his memory. right and honorable that all classes will revere his memory.

"When the war with Spain occurred he was one of the first to volunteer for any duty that might be required of him. His only request was that he might be permitted to go where there was most probability of doing active service. After that war was over, being disabled by a brief fliness, he returned to the Luited States and then sought and obtained active service in the far-distant field in the Philippines, where the duties of military service were most difficult and dangerous. The success of that campaign is largely attributed to the adomitable energy, fortitude and tenacity of Major-Gen. Lawton.
